1942 Parcel Post Card sent 20.10.42 from Adutiškis, a tiny village near the pre-World War II Polish railway town of Podstawy, 117 km north-east of Wilno (now the Lithuanian capital Vilnius). The addressee lived in Trakai, the present Lithuanian name for what was the then Polish railway town N. Troki, 25 km south-west of Wilno, on the main line to Warsaw. Both Adutiškis and Trakai were in the pre-war Polish wojewódstwo (province) Wilno. In 1939 the whole area was part of eastern Poland which was overrun by the Soviet Russians during their stab in the back of Poland when the country was desperately trying to defend itself against the German invasion from the west.

This German Parcel Post Card has a complete "Arrival script" on the reverse side and is expertised by Siegler.
